PBS Hawaii receives $10,000 gift from Aloha Petroleum for NEW HOME Campaign

Honolulu, HI – PBS Hawaii recently received a $10,000 gift from Aloha Petroleum, Ltd. for the public television station’s future home on Nimitz Highway and Sand Island Access Road.

Construction of PBS Hawaii’s new home at the site of the former KFVE Newsplex will be underway by year’s end, with completion in 2016. The existing one-story structure will be renovated and expanded to include a second story, for a total of 30,000 square feet under roof. The building will house a main television studio and a smaller interview studio; an emergency broadcast center; and a Media Innovation Center.

“It’s wonderful that Aloha Petroleum is contributing to this future home for more learning, more music, more culture for all of Hawaii,” said Leslie Wilcox, PBS Hawaii President and CEO. “We’re grateful that the local business community is stepping up to support us.”

“PBS Hawaii has an incredible history here in the Islands and we’re so pleased we can support their efforts to build their new home,” said Aloha Petroleum CEO Richard Parry.

PBS Hawaii is a 501(c)(3) and Hawaii’s sole member of the trusted Public Broadcasting Service (PBS). We advance learning and discovery through storytelling that profoundly touches people’s lives.
